ZION CITY IGNORES 7TH ANNIVERSARY

Pompous Celebration Abandoned and Ten-Day Service of Prayer Forgotten.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, July 15.—Today was the seventh anniversary of the founding of Zion City by John Alexander Dowie, but, in contrast to former years, when there was rejoicing and happiness, today was one of almost gloomy quiet in the little north shore city. In former years, beginning with the anniversary day, the "Feast of the tabernacle," the gala season of the year, was celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, and with a ten-day service of prayer. But the past year has been one of many vicissitudes and the Zion City of early days may be said to no longer exist. John Alexander Dowie, the mainspring of the movement, is dead and with him appears to have gone the vitality of the city which he founded. The widow and son are taking in summer boarders at Shiloh house and many of the industries of the town have passed into the hands of outsiders. Internal troubles have rent the sect and no leader has so far appeared able to restore its old-time prestige.

The case will probably be dropped.

AMERICANS TO HEAR ENGLISH AUTHORITY

International Law Association to be Addressed by Sir Frederick Pollock, Law Writer.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 15.—Both the American Bar Association and the International Law Association are to be congratulated on the fact that Sir Frederick Pollock has been secured to address the meeting of the last-named body to be held next month at Portland, Me., immediately following the meeting of the American Bar Association. Few writers on the law are regarded as more authoritative than Sir Frederick Pollock, though he has lived so much among his books that comparatively little is popularly known of him. That he is a worker of the thorough and persistent sort need scarcely be written of one who has to his credit ten of one who has to his credit more than a score of volumes of published works. His position in the law is commanding. He has served as professor of jurisprudence at the University College, London, was for six years professor of common law in the Inns of Court, has edited the famous "Law Reports" for many years, and has held the chair of the corpus professorship of jurisprudence at the University of Oxford. His coming visit will not be the first he has paid to America. In 1903 he had the honor of being the Storrs lecturer at the Yale Law School.

NOTED EX-TRAIN ROBBER PAROLED FROM PRISON

Emmett Dalton Given Leave of Absence To Receive Treatment for Wound Received In Coffeyville Raid.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Kansas City, Mo., July 15.—Bewildered by the busy scenes and new sights confronting his eyes, Emmett Dalton, the ex-train robber, is enjoying the first bit of freedom he has spent outside of prison walls in nearly fifteen years. A week ago he was granted a four months' parole by Governor Hoch and released from the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing in order that he might come to the city to receive treatment for a wound in the shoulder, received in the famous skirmish at Coffeyville, Kas. It is believed that a pardon is in sight for the ex-bandit and it is probable that he will not be obliged to stay in prison long after the expiration of his present parole.

His aged mother, who is now with him, has been working for his freedom for years and recently her efforts have received the endorsement of many prominent Kansans. Last Survivor of the Dalton Gang. Emmett Dalton is the last surviving member of the Dalton gang of outlaws, which included the three brothers, Bob Gratton and Emmett, who first sprang into public notice in 1889 and were wiped out in 1892 at Coffeyville, Kas., where they attempted to rob the Coffeyville National bank. Bob Dalton had been a deputy marshal in the Indian Territory, where he acquired a reputation for nerve and daring. In 1889 he was discharged from the service for accepting bribes from criminals. Accompanied by his brothers, Gratton and Emmett, he proceeded to California. They had not been there long before there was train robbery near Acilla, in which the fireman of the train was killed. The Daltons were accused and indicted. They left the state and for the next eighteen months they made criminal history faster than it had been made since the days of the Younger and James boys.

Big Rewards Offered. The Santa Fe train robberies at Wharton and Red Rock, the Missouri Pacific robbery at Adair and the San Francisco robbery near Vinita all followed in rapid succession. Between jobs the gang hid in the Indian Territory, Arkansas and Kansas. The railroad and express companies heaped up rewards until they amounted to $25,000, but there were no captures. The Coffeyville raid was the pet scheme of Bob Dalton. He lived there, knew the banks, and was anxious to outdo the James and Younger exploits by riding boldly into the town in broad daylight and plundering both banks at one haul. The raid occurred in October, 1892. The gang rode into the town, hitched its horses in an alley and started for the banks, each man carrying a Winchester in the holow of his arm.

Citizens Give Battle. But the purpose of the gang was quickly realized and a cry of "Robbers in the bank!" brought the citizens out in force. The defenders of the town rushed into two hardware stores and armed with rifles and guns. They stole out on the tops of buildings in alleys and, back lots, while some few stood boldly out in the street. In the National bank Bob and Emmett Dalton had compelled the bank force to hold up its hands, and had dumped $20,000 in cash into a sack. Coming to the bank window Bob engaged in battle with the townspeople, killing one man and wounding three others. Meanwhile there was more serious trouble for Grat Dalton at the Condor bank. The bank had a time lock which frustrated the efforts of the gang to open it. Grat swept up the cash he found lying around, exchanging a few shots with the citizens until he was forced to flee. The gang hurried to the alley where their horses were tied, and where they were hemmed in by the citizens to such an extent that the Dalton boys only Emmett, swifter of foot than the others, gained his horse. Emmett rode but a short distance, when to the astonishment of the citizens, he turned back to help his brother Bob, who had been mortally wounded.

THE UNITED STATES IN THE PACIFIC

If the discussion of our relations with Japan results in concentrating popular attention upon the relations of the United States to the Pacific in matters commercial, industrial and financial, it will have done a highly desirable service.

The national mind is far too much inclined to put off its larger problems until some event thrusts into our faces the necessity of taking action on fundamental lines to secure the advantages to which we are naturally entitled. With an ocean frontage of 2,000 miles on the Pacific, being the principal political power on the American side of the ocean, possessed of the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines, with all the responsibility for their protection and development, and with the ultimate necessity of having to compete with all other maritime nations in order to maintain ourselves in the Pacific trade, the wonder is that more has not been done to attract the attention of public opinion and to insist on the governmental authorities recognizing the problems of the Pacific in their entirety as they bear upon our own national future.

Whether from the economic or from the military standpoint, the United States cannot afford to ignore her problems of the Pacific. Economically, the commercial requirements are becoming more and more pressing. The competition favoring the establishment of a line of steamships between San Francisco and Panama, in view of the alleged inadequacy of the existing accommodations, is one phase of the commercial problem.

From the naval standpoint, the question of domestic safety requires the development of naval bases and cruising acquaintance with the Pacific coast. The moving the fleet around the Horn is only part of this program of enhancing appreciation of the strategic value of position in the Pacific. Few things would help our Pacific commerce more in an indirect way than the more general presence of our naval fleet in Pacific waters. Moreover, the presence of a larger body of vessels in those waters would give to shipbuilding and repairing a much-needed impetus. From purely business considerations, therefore, it is time that more attention be given to establishing the prestige of the United States in this greatest of all fields of maritime possibilities.

THE UNFOLDING OF CHINA

The departure of the minister from China, from Washington gave him an occasion to speak of the progressive movements in his native country in which the Occident is always interested. Among the things he mentioned were the maintenance of the open door policy, the building of railroads and the development of the interior. Besides these, and of a still more fundamental character, are the experiments in local government, the inauguration of public schools in the different provinces, and preparation for establishing a constituent assembly.

All this indicates that the Celestial empire is laying the foundations for a new economic life, inspired by the newer spirit of nationality as a unifying principle of advancement. China will need much of the world's surplus capital in her unfolding. Our imports to China have increased fourfold in the course of ten years. Not even Japan's imports have grown so rapidly, although they now exceed ours in amount. China will need more of our goods as she grows in purchasing capacity, which her people are doing steadily. As interior resources are developed and her industries and commerce grow, she may need at home so much of her labor supply as to put an end to fears about the "yellow peril."

The story that there are twenty thousand Japs in Canada ready to invade the United States and thirty thousand in Mexico for the same purpose is amusing. It has been suggested that they be hired to form a posse and capture John Dietz at Cameron Dam.

Now is the time to make hay while the sun shines. Agriculturalist say that the green bug has not appeared in Wisconsin and the farmers say it has. Anyway the oat crop is not as good as it might have been expected.

Janesville is growing despite the fact some people want to see it sprout up like corn after a warm rain before they will believe it.

Talk of an interurban to Madison still is heard. It is too good to be true that a road will actually be built.

Fighting Bob Evans and his fleet of battleships will make things hum down the Pacific slope this fall.

Supposing the fleet should sail away from Jamestown entirely. Where would the Exposition be?

The Quaker City is being waked up decidedly by the Hello Bill boys this week.

The Jap who spit on the American flag will remember not to do so again.

ALLEGED HARNESS THIEF CAPTURED SUNDAY MORNING

And Four Stolen Sets Unearthed in Charles Carpenter's Barn—Frank Osgood, Hired Man, Also in Custody.

Charged with the theft of numerous sets of harness during the past week, John Smith, a man who came here with the railroad gang now at work in the new C. & N. W. yards and who has been boarding at the European hotel, was taken into custody by Officer Peter Champion. Word reached City Marshal Appleby that an individual answering Smith's description had sold a set of harness to Frank Osgood, employed in Landlord Charles Carpenter's barn, and when he made an investigation he discovered that the set in question was one stolen from Charles Gray, the pop-manufacturer, Saturday evening. A careful search of the premises brought to light three other sets, one hidden in the hay-mow and two concealed in a little shed adjoining the barn. One of the two sets stolen from John Kennedy Thursday night, another taken from Floyd Murdoch's barn Friday evening, and still another taken from J. O. Selbeck's premises, were among the number so recovered. Frank Osgood was immediately arrested on the charge of receiving stolen property. The latter appeared in municipal court this morning and his hearing was set for Wednesday morning. Smith was also brought before Judge Field and his hearing set for Saturday morning.

BUOB BREWING CO. TO BUILD HOTEL

For the Accommodation of Railroad Men Employed in the New South Janesville Yards.

Having purchased of John Huginh a half-acre triangle of land located directly opposite the new South Janesville railroad yards and on the curve of the interurban road, the M. Buob Brewing Co. will erect thereon this fall a modern hotel containing from twenty to thirty rooms, a spacious dining-room, lobby, and bar. William Buob returned on Saturday from a trip to Chicago, where he made satisfactory arrangements with the railroad officials with regard to the company's assuming responsibility for payment of board and lodging bills contracted by the men. Plans have not as yet been drawn for the structure, nor has it been determined as to whether or not the hotel will be a brick or frame structure. A small depot and platform for the accommodation of interurban patrons will also be erected.

Buy it in Janesville.

JACK.

Stranger, you ask accommodation. Say, I ain't no grouch, but then it's just this way: You come a-steamlin' up in that big car. O' yours—dod blast the thing. You've traveled far. Got far to go, and ask me for the night. To put you up, it ain't my style—not quite.

To grudge a traveler a bed an' snack. But—well, stranger, say—I hain't forgot Jack!

Who's Jack? Oh, jest a little yaller cur. But my gal loved him, an' we both loved her.

We shored d'd, stranger! Mary died at seven.

Jest sort o' went to find her ma in heaven. An' that left me an' Jack—jest him an' me.

Jack—jest little pup you ever see. Bright as button, busy as a bee. An' everything I'd left in God's good world—

Comeimpin' in one afternoon an' curled up in my arms—you never see each eye. I done the best I knowed how, doctorin'. Bandaged the bleedin' paw—big tourist's car.

Done it—an' then, jest prayed an' waited. Par.

Inter that night I held him. Then I saw Poor Jack was swellin'—for 'twain't jest the paw.

Like I'd be'n hopin'—Jack was hurt in-side.

Injured internal-like. Midnight he died.

But I'm keepin' you. Stranger, I—shot Jack!

Then, somehow, suthin' hit me; yender went black.

Next day—right over there at yender tree—

I dug another grave; there—don't you see, Three graves a-row? An' this yere cabin's mine.

Folks call me Crazy Bill, an' I opine They ain't so far off. Mighty out o' date. Thinkin' dogs has souls! Well, it's fittin' late.

An' I don't b'lieve there's no use stoppin' here.

Stranger, it sort o' seems like I don't keer For company, for somehow—I'm sort o' queer!

A Deprivation.

"You must be happy now, since your firm has put you on a pension."

"Yes, but I do miss looking forward to the annual vacation." — Fillegende Blatter.

A Consoling Thought.

A young authoress who has been uniformly unsuccessful in selling her manuscripts recently said to me in all seriousness and with the sweetest spirit:

"When I suffer from disappointment and thwarted ambition, I go to a funeral to seek relief. Seeing the motionless figure at rest impresses it on me that we shall all be so some day—my own fevered heart, the very editor who refused me—and I feel a certain consolation in the thought!" — Lippincott's.

Helping Him Out.

During the salmon fishing season an Englishman was the guest of a highland laird, and one day he hooked a fine salmon. Being inexperienced as a fisherman, he became excited and in the struggle with the fish fell into the river. The keeper, seeing that he was no swimmer, looked him with the gaff and started to drag him ashore. "What are ye about, Donald?" cried the laird. "Get hand o' the rod and look tae the fish. Ma friend can bide a wee, but the fish wimna!"

Thoughtful of Him.

"See here," said the lady, "you told me that work would only cost me $13, and here you've sent in a bill for $14."

"Yes'm," replied the carpenter; "you see when I came to think the thing over afterward I was afraid maybe you'd be superstitious about that 13."

Almost Betrayed Herself.

"My father wanted to kiss me this morning, and I became so confused I—"

"Well?"

"Came near resisting. Too funny, wasn't it?" — Megendorfer Blatter.

The Real Trouble.

Hawley—So her father objected to your suit, eh?

Snapleigh—Oh, no; me clothes were perfectly satisfactory. It was me he objected to, doncher know.—Chicago News.

WANTS INFORMATION AS TO W. G. WRIGHT

Wife of the Manager of the Eldorado Stock Company Which Stranded Here Seeks News.

Manager Peter L. Myers of the Myers Theatre this morning received a letter from Mrs. W. G. Wright, wife of the Manager of the Eldorado Stock Company, from Atlanta, Georgia, in which she asks Mr. Myers for any information he may have as to the whereabouts of her husband. Mrs. Wright says she last heard from her husband June 11th. Since then, her brother has died and she has been unable to find her husband to communicate with him. All Mr. Myers knows of Mr. Wright is that he came to Janesville with his stock company on June 24th from Racine, that owing to troubles financial several of his leading performers struck Monday night after the performance and an arrangement was made so they received their salary after each performance. Tuesday Wright left for Chicago to get a check cashed and hire some new people to take their places. He was to return Wednesday and except for a telegram Wednesday saying he would be back nothing has been heard from him. The show closed Wednesday evening, others of the company refusing to go on until Wright paid them, and the scenery was attached by Mr. Myers for the broken contract. Later it developed that Richard Guthmann of Chicago had a previous claim on the scenery but not properly covered by mortgage, having sold it to Mr. Wright some six weeks previous but receiving no money. He also cashed two checks for Mr. Wright and in a letter received by Mr. Myers from Guthmann this morning it appears that these checks were worthless. The scenery is still at the Myers theatre and no word has been received from Wright. Mr. Myers will send Mrs. Wright what news he has of the missing man and can only conjecture what has become of him.

FIVE POISONED BY THE FOOD SERVED

John Bass' Family South of the City Made Violently Ill.

Five members of John Bass' family, living on the Beloit road south of this city, were taken dangerously ill as a result of being poisoned by some food which they ate at supper. For a time it was feared the poison would result fatally, but by heroic efforts a tragedy was averted and the patients are recovering today. Those who were ill were: Mr. Bass, his two daughters, aged eighteen months and three and a half years, and two nieces. Blackmer by name. What it was they ate that was tainted is a mystery. The principal articles of food at supper were bananas, cheese, and milk. Any one of these, according to physicians, might have induced illness. About midnight Mr. Bass awoke and found himself very sick. His daughters and nieces were also awake and in the same condition. When home remedies gave no relief, a telephone call was sent to this city and a doctor made a fast drive to the home. He found all the family suffering terrible pain and vomiting profusely. Prompt action had its effect in a short time and before the physician returned home his patients were resting comfortably.

A young authoress who has been uniformly unsuccessful in selling her manuscripts recently said to me in all seriousness and with the sweetest spirit:

"When I suffer from disappointment and thwarted ambition, I go to a funeral to seek relief. Seeing the motionless figure at rest impresses it on me that we shall all be so some day—my own fevered heart, the very editor who refused me—and I feel a certain consolation in the thought!" — Lippincott's.

Helping Him Out.

During the salmon fishing season an Englishman was the guest of a highland laird, and one day he hooked a fine salmon. Being inexperienced as a fisherman, he became excited and in the struggle with the fish fell into the river. The keeper, seeing that he was no swimmer, looked him with the gaff and started to drag him ashore. "What are ye about, Donald?" cried the laird. "Get hand o' the rod and look tae the fish. Ma friend can bide a wee, but the fish wimna!"

Thoughtful of Him.

"See here," said the lady, "you told me that work would only cost me $13, and here you've sent in a bill for $14."

"Yes'm," replied the carpenter; "you see when I came to think the thing over afterward I was afraid maybe you'd be superstitious about that 13."

Almost Betrayed Herself.

"My father wanted to kiss me this morning, and I became so confused I—"

"Well?"

"Came near resisting. Too funny, wasn't it?" — Megendorfer Blatter.

The Real Trouble.

Hawley—So her father objected to your suit, eh?

WANTS INFORMATION AS TO W. G. WRIGHT

Wife of the Manager of the Eldorado Stock Company Which Stranded Here Seeks News.

Manager Peter L. Myers of the Myers Theatre this morning received a letter from Mrs. W. G. Wright, wife of the Manager of the Eldorado Stock Company, from Atlanta, Georgia, in which she asks Mr. Myers for any information he may have as to the whereabouts of her husband. Mrs. Wright says she last heard from her husband June 11th. Since then, her brother has died and she has been unable to find her husband to communicate with him. All Mr. Myers knows of Mr. Wright is that he came to Janesville with his stock company on June 24th from Racine, that owing to troubles financial several of his leading performers struck Monday night after the performance and an arrangement was made so they received their salary after each performance. Tuesday Wright left for Chicago to get a check cashed and hire some new people to take their places. He was to return Wednesday and except for a telegram Wednesday saying he would be back nothing has been heard from him. The show closed Wednesday evening, others of the company refusing to go on until Wright paid them, and the scenery was attached by Mr. Myers for the broken contract. Later it developed that Richard Guthmann of Chicago had a previous claim on the scenery but not properly covered by mortgage, having sold it to Mr. Wright some six weeks previous but receiving no money. He also cashed two checks for Mr. Wright and in a letter received by Mr. Myers from Guthmann this morning it appears that these checks were worthless. The scenery is still at the Myers theatre and no word has been received from Wright. Mr. Myers will send Mrs. Wright what news he has of the missing man and can only conjecture what has become of him.

FIVE POISONED BY THE FOOD SERVED

John Bass' Family South of the City Made Violently Ill.

Five members of John Bass' family, living on the Beloit road south of this city, were taken dangerously ill as a result of being poisoned by some food which they ate at supper. For a time it was feared the poison would result fatally, but by heroic efforts a tragedy was averted and the patients are recovering today. Those who were ill were: Mr. Bass, his two daughters, aged eighteen months and three and a half years, and two nieces. Blackmer by name. What it was they ate that was tainted is a mystery. The principal articles of food at supper were bananas, cheese, and milk. Any one of these, according to physicians, might have induced illness. About midnight Mr. Bass awoke and found himself very sick. His daughters and nieces were also awake and in the same condition. When home remedies gave no relief, a telephone call was sent to this city and a doctor made a fast drive to the home. He found all the family suffering terrible pain and vomiting profusely. Prompt action had its effect in a short time and before the physician returned home his patients were resting comfortably.

FIVE BOYS ARE HELD FOR THEFT

MUNICIPAL COURT CROWDED WITH THE CURIOUS TODAY.

EIGHT DRUNKS PUNISHED

Most of Them Were Jailed Saturday Evening—Action Against Thomas Griffin Dismissed.

Over forty youngsters, most of them barefooted, and a number of anxious elderly people crowded into the municipal court gallery this morning to watch the proceedings against five boys, all alleged to be implicated in the theft on May 25 of 50 pounds of lead piping, brass faucets, etc., from the abandoned Schlitz Brewing Co.'s saloon west of the railroad tracks and formerly managed by Thos. Madden, but two of them held on the still more serious charge of cutting the John Bierkness residence, on July 1, and making away with $11 and a watch. The original complaint practically charged daylight burglary in the instance of the theft of the lead pipe, subsequently sold to the Snyder plumbing establishment, but they were charged this morning so as to cover the more crime of theft. James Fox and Eugene Rife admitted their guilt, asserting that in company with Eddie Barry they carried the stuff away and sold it. They also said that Johnnie Hessian, Lawrence Griffin, and Leo Hogan, appeared on the scene and wanted a share in the plunder, but that they refused to divide with them. Judge Rife deferred the passing of sentence until tomorrow morning. Young Griffin, the Hessian, and the Hogan boy, according to the statement made by the first-named, broke off a piece of pipe weighing about five pounds or less but later threw it away by the railroad track. Griffin pleaded guilty to stealing lead worth twenty cents. Though the single offense would hardly warrant it, the court was disposed to think that it might be advisable to send the Griffin boy to the reform school at Waukesha and called on District Attorney Fisher for his opinion. The latter stated that for two years past City Marshal Appleby had repeatedly had to attend to this lad along with others of his age; that he had been in court on several occasions for truancy and for throwing things in the school windows, but that in view of the fact that he was an industrious worker and perhaps not hopeless, he would recommend giving him one more chance. Judge Rife was unable to decide and deferred sentence in this case also until tomorrow morning. In the meantime the Griffin boy will remain at the county jail. The two first-named, who have never been in court before, were released on condition that they appear tomorrow morning.

Examination Continued.
The examination of Eddie Barry and Johnnie Hessian which was set for today was not finished, and after City Marshal Appleby and Officer John Brown had testified, was continued until Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. There was a tilt between District Attorney Fisher and Atty. J. J. Cunningham who appeared in court as Hessian's counsel, when the latter called the Barry youth aside and started to examine him. Mr. Cunningham explained to the court that he had also been temporarily retained after he entered the court room as counsel for Barry but had advised the relatives of the boy who conferred with him to retain another lawyer and had indeed telephoned for George Sutthorland. He demanded that he be permitted to confer with his client without interference. City Marshal Appleby detailed the Barry boys' confession to him in the presence of Officer Brown and others, soon after his arrest last Friday. According to his story Johnnie Hessian led the way through an open window of the Bierkness home and got the pocket-books containing the $11, while he (Barry) pocketed the watch, which he afterwards sold to Hessian for 35 cents. The testimony of the city marshal was corroborated by Officer Brown.

Eight Up For Drunkenness.
Seven men and a woman were haled in court to answer to charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Charles Harmon was sentenced to spend five days in the county jail. John Quigley must pay a fine and costs of $2.10 or spend five days behind the bars. John Conroy must pay $5.10 with the alternative of ten days. Ralph Terrell, $5.30 with the alternative of ten days. Lonnie Mulcaire, $4.10 with the alternative of seven days. John Mosher, $5.10 with the alternative of ten days. Nora Rollins (better known as "Hoot" Dalin) $2.30 with the alternative of five days. Tim Collins paid $2.10 but the others had not "produced" at noon today.

Case Against Griffin Dismissed.
About a year ago Claude Montayne was sent to the penitentiary for an attempted crime against a girl named May Stevens. Thomas Griffin's name came into the case in some manner but when the State commenced an action against him the chief witness had disappeared, nor has it been possible since to locate her. The evidence against Griffin is believed to have been somewhat shadowy and he was given the benefit of the doubt this morning when, on motion of the district attorney, the case was dismissed.

RECEIPTS $1,790; EXPENSES $1,550

ARRANGEMENTS COMMITTEE MADE FINANCIAL REPORT.

$885 FOR SCOVILLE CORPS

Rent of Rink, Advertising, Traveling Expenses and Board Totaled $615.70.

From a financial standpoint the big June revival which closed here a week ago last Sunday was by no means a failure. Practically all expenses have been paid and there is now over $200 in the treasury. As soon as debts are settled the disposition of this balance will be determined upon by the representatives of the Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, Baptist and Congregational churches under whose auspices the meetings were conducted. At a union service of these four churches last evening the financial report was read and expressions of thanks were made to the various persons, concerns and organizations that assisted in making the revival possible.

Detailed Statement.
By donations from the four churches, collections at the evening services and free-will offerings there was collected $1,615.56. The illustrated lecture delivered by Charles Reigan Scoville shortly before the end of the revival netted $175. The total receipts were $1,790.56.

For the rental of the rink building, advertising the revival, traveling expenses of the revivalists and board for them $615 was paid out. For the services of Dr. Scoville and his assistants was paid $885. Fifty dollars went for miscellaneous expenses. The total expenditures were $1,550.04.

The balance in the treasury at present is $239.62. From this amount must be paid a few outstanding debts.

Expressions of Thanks.

The various ministers, composing the arrangements committee, expressed thanks to the following: J. L. Hay and assistants for ushering; Mrs. F. T. Richards for playing the piano every evening of the revival; Janesville Water company and Fire Chief Klein and freight for cooling the rink on hot days by throwing water on the roof; Janesville Electric company for wiring; Valentine School of Telegraphy for use of electric fans; Schaller & McKee Lumber company for preserving order at all meetings, and the Gazette and Recorder Printing companies for space given to announcements and accounts of meetings.

ATTEMPT TO KILL FRENCH PRESIDENT

NAVAL RESERVIST FIRES TWO SHOTS AT M. FALLIERES.

NEITHER TAKES EFFECT

Assassin, Who Seeks Chief Magistrate's Life as 'He Returns from' Longchamps Review, is Thought Crazy.

Paris, July 15.—The national fête Sunday was marred by a dastardly attempt on the life of President Fallières by Leon Maille, a naval reservist of Havre, who, it is believed, is suffering from the mania of persecution. Maille fired two shots at the president but did not hit him. He was at once placed under arrest.

On account of the activity of the anti-militarists, who tried to organize a demonstration against the army throughout France Sunday, exceptional precautions were taken to safeguard President Fallières. The attempt on his life occurred on the Avenue des Champs-Élysées while the president was returning to the palace from Longchamps, where he had reviewed the garrison of Paris in the presence of 250,000 enthusiastic people.

M. FALLIERES.
(New President of French Republic, Who Succeeded Loubet)

Assassin Fires Twice.

Premier Clemenceau and M. Lanes, the president's secretary, were with the president in his landau, which was escorted by a squadron of cuirassiers. The carriage had safely emerged from the Bois de Boulogne, where the anti-militarists had stationed themselves with the intention of hooting the soldiers and was descending the broad Champs-Élysées amid the acclamations of the crowds thronging the sidewalks, who were shouting "vive Fallières," "vive L'Armée," when at the corner of Lesueur street Maille from the curb fired two shots point blank at the president in quick succession.

Miraculously no one was hit. President Fallières was cool and collected when the cortege stopped. The diplomats who were following the president's landau alighted from their carriages and hurried to the side of M. Fallières. Finding that nobody had been injured, by the president's orders the cortege moved on.

Meantime two policemen seized Maille, who made no resistance, but the police with difficulty prevented the irate crowd from lynching the prisoner until a cordon of reserves came up and conducted him to the station. There Maille refused to give any reasons for his act, saying:

"The revelations I have are so grave and serious that I will only make them before a magistrate for transmission to the chief of state. It is a matter between the government and me. I am the victim of many villainies."

Thought to be Crazy.
Some of the witnesses of the shooting said that Maille fired in the air. It is believed that the man participated in the recent seamen's strike and that his mind had been unhinged by fancied grievances. It is believed also that he aided in the revolutionary agitation of the General Federation of Labor and the anti-militarists. There is no reason to suspect a plot, as Maille arrived here from Rouen only Saturday night.

Maille appeared before an examining magistrate Sunday night and the authorities succeeded in extracting from him only a rambling statement about family persecution directed against him. It was in order to draw public attention to his grievances, he said, that he fired the shots. The prisoner terminated the examination by announcing his intention to give no further explanations, as he believed that the magistrate would do nothing to remedy his wrongs.

Railway Washouts in Nebraska.
Lincoln, Neb., July 15.—Heavy rain storms in eastern Nebraska Sunday evening put the railroads out of business and interrupted telegraphic communication. The Burlington reports its line near Pappio buried under driftwood from a sudden flood. It reports serious washouts at Ashland, Culon, Leshara and Gretna. Rock Island railroad tracks are under water near Alvo and South Bend. The Northwestern's Lincoln line is washed out near Ceresota.

Forest Fires in Michigan.
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 15.—Reports from every direction tell of forest fires doing heavy damage. A report from Rober says that all the camps of the Mud Lake Lumber company have been destroyed, as well as several farmhouses. Much livestock is reported lost.

ROANOKE GREEKS MOBBED

FOUR HOURS OF FIERCE FIGHTING IN VIRGINIA TOWN.

Race War Started by Petty Dispute—Mayor and Others Among the Injured.

Roanoke, Va., July 15.—Roanoke was quiet Sunday after four hours of rioting Saturday night when a mob wrecked nine Greek restaurants, three Greek shoe polishing parlors and two Syrian shops. The riot was caused by a dispute about five cents between a Greek employed in the Belmont Greek restaurant on Salem avenue and an American who went there to buy a sandwich.

Seven places were wrecked on Salem avenue, three on Jefferson street, one on Nelson street and one on Railroad avenue. Five men have been arrested and lodged in jail and one of them has been released on $250 bail for his appearance at the hearing of the case in the police court next Thursday.

While the disturbance was in progress Mayor Joel H. Cutchin, who was in the street begging the crowds to disperse, was struck on the legs and severely bruised by rocks thrown by unknown parties. Flying stones also struck Police Justice J. R. Bryan, Police Sergeant Overstreet and Policemen Manning, King and Evans and Chief Engineer John Waggoner, of the Central fire department. The fire department was called out to throw water on the crowd and when the hose was turned on there were cries of "cut the hose." One man stuck a knife in the hose, but was driven off by the big stream that was played on him.

The mayor ordered the police to guard the hardware stores to prevent the mob from raiding these places.

Thirty-nine ringleaders were arrested Saturday for hissing soldiers who were returning from the review. Other arrests were made at the Place de La Concorde, where the League of Patriots held its annual ceremony.

HARRIMAN RAILWAY DICTATOR.

Interstate Commerce Commission Report Reveals His Vast Powers.

Washington, July 15.—That E. H. Harriman is practically the absolute dictator of the railroad situation in the western half of the United States is shown by the long expected report of the Interstate commerce commission, made public Saturday.

The report shows that Harriman has grasped the control of all but one of the great transcontinental railroads, and how he is reaching out to secure a hold in lines reaching to the Atlantic seaboard and to the gulf. It shows how his mastery extends to every Pacific ocean steamship line and to the coastwise traffic on the Atlantic and Pacific from Panama north. It criticizes his methods and denounces his policy.

But after showing these things the report stops short of radical recommendations. It does not, as was expected it would, urge an attack in the courts against the merger of the Union and Southern Pacifics. It does not recommend legal or criminal proceedings of any kind.

The report recommends that railroads should not be permitted to invest in the securities of other railroad and steamship lines and that some restriction be placed on the issuance of securities by railroads.

Mr. Harriman has been spurred into a quick and heated reply. In an interview telegraphed here from New York, he declares the report is a piece of politics and full of glaring inaccuracies.

HORDE OF DOGS MAROONED

PUT ON M'PIKE ISLAND, NEAR ST. LOUIS, TO STARVE.

Now Ravenous Animals Will Be Rescued by Humane Society and Owners Prosecuted.

St. Louis, July 15.—A horde of dogs, marooned on McPike island in the Mississippi river above St. Louis, rendered ferocious through starvation, has made dangerous the landing of river craft. It is believed the dogs were placed on the island by owners who desired to be rid of them and yet disliked to kill them.

For some time strange noises, yelps, howls and snarls had been heard emanating from the small island by occupants of passing river craft, and Capt. William Flint made investigation. No sooner had his ferry steamer approached than scores of dogs ran out from the underbrush and, lining the shore, snarled so menacingly that Capt. Flint feared to land. A number of the dogs became engaged in a terrific fight and some of them were killed. Others sprang into the river in an attempt to reach the ferry boat and were drowned.

Members of the Humane society have decided to succor the starving animals and declare they will prosecute the owners if they can be found. Before the dogs can be rescued with safety, food will be thrown to them from boats to satiate their ravenous hunger, and they will then be taken from the island.

WRINKLES AND WHAT CAUSES THEM.

Chicago, March 27, 1907.

Mrs. Orr When She Commenced Treatment. Is the envy of my friends, and I cannot say too much for your course of treatments for beautifying women. You certainly do all you claim and your remedies are perfection. I recommend them to my friends.

Mrs. Orr After Course Treatment. The enclosed picture, which was taken last fall, shows my condition at that time. The enclosed picture, taken February 25th, shows my condition at the present time. I desire to state that you have not only removed the wrinkles and crows-feet, but have put my skin in a first-class, youthful condition, of which I am very proud.

Trusting this letter will fulfill my promise to you and be all that you require, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Mrs. Thelma Orr

Hotel Wychemere, 18th and Indiana Avenue.

"Wrinkles," the little word that causes a shudder to every woman and most men, are caused more by carelessness and neglect than by years. We all know the young person who makes creases by lifting the eyebrows and by smiling so continuously, also the person who frowns and squints, and the one who from ill health and poorly nourished skin shows the lines crossing the face in every direction. Such people may all take heart, because by the use of E. Burnham's wonderful skin food such lines may and surely will be obliterated.

It is unnecessary to-day for any one to carry these telltale marks.

A course of treatment as arranged by E. Burnham will positively remove wrinkles, fill out the sunken cheeks, remove pimples and blackheads, and restore any face to its youthful contour and complexion. These treatments with the different articles are illustrated and explained in a little booklet which is published by E. BURNHAM, which makes it so plain that any lady can use these toilet articles with equally good success in the privacy of her own home as if she had visited Burnham's Beautifying Parlors and taken a course of treatments in this great establishment.

MUNICIPAL UNACY.

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

Has anybody yet thought of the desirability of municipal ownership of the barber shops? If not it is respectfully suggested that the matter be looked into, for under private control it is undeniable that many abuses have grown up. No misplaced respect for alleged private rights should be permitted to take the latter out of the mouths of the public.

The Brooklyn Eagle says that "you simply can't marry business and politics." Ah, but you can. Misalliances are always possible. The real trouble will come when you try to divorce them, even for cause.

Only a fool would suggest managing gas companies, street car companies and so on regardless of cost—Hearst's New York Evening Journal.

Now, William, stop calling yourself names. Leave that to your enemies.

One thing is very certain. If capitalists refuse to take the municipal bonds that are being offered on the markets, it won't take more than fifteen minutes for an alert common council to pass an ordinance requiring them to take them. Better be warned in time, ye money sharks. When that ordinance is passed, who knows but that one of its provisions will set the price of a hundred dollar bond at $125?

Too much credit has ruined many a man. Wherefore, the city that cannot sell its mortgages for over 83% is just that much further from ruin as 83% is from par. Q. E. D.

There seems to be a general suspicion in New York city that the more flourishing of its pool rooms and other gambling institutions are controlled by a committee of municipal officials acting ex officio. This is one of the few varieties of municipal control which can be said to realize enormous profits.

Northfield, Vt., before starting in upon municipal ownership owed $2,082. At the close of the experiment it owed $47,319, a nice little profit of $45,237.

Opera Note of the Future.

Now that New York city has assumed charge of the Metropolitan Opera House and opera has been thoroughly municipalized, the music lovers of the city are looking forward with much curiosity to what promises to be an interesting season.

The appointment of Mr. Fassett, the well known plumber, to its management by the common council will infuse new spirit into the institution, though there are still timid souls who doubt whether the artists be as engaged, notably Mr. O'Brien, the livery stable keeper, and Miss Maggie Dugan of Lacey's ribbon counter, to sing Roles and Juliet are vocally equal to the roles assigned them. Those who have heard Miss Dugan summon a cash boy are perfectly familiar with the wonderful quality of her voice, especially in its higher altitudes, and her enunciation of the word "cash" is bell-like in the clarity of its tone. Mr. O'Brien, however, is more of an experiment; but, while "we must" confess we have only heard him address his horses in the past, there is no denying that there is a superb quality to the notes of his middle register. Signor Cospetto di Napoli, the popular dealer in confetti in Mulberry street, who will lead the orchestra in Italian nights, comes of a musical family, his parents having toured the country with a barrel organ for many prosperous seasons.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

CHAPTER VI.

A MONTH had passed since the memorable meeting of the directors of the Southern and Transcontinental railroad in New York, and during that time neither John Burkett Ryder nor Judge Rossmore had been idle. The former had immediately set in motion the machinery he controlled in the legislature at Washington, while the judge neglected no step to vindicate himself before the public.

Ryder for reasons of his own—probably because he wished to make the blow the more crushing when it did fall—had insisted on the proceedings at the board meeting being kept a profound secret, and some time elapsed before the newspapers got wind of the coming congressional inquiry. No one had believed the stories about Judge Rossmore, but now that a quasi official seal had been set on the current gossip there was a howl of vicious indignation from the journalistic muck rakers. What was the country coming to? they cried in double ended type. After the embezzling life insurance officers, the rascality of the railroads, the looting of city treasuries, the greed of the trusts, the grafting of the legislators, had arisen a new and more serious scandal, the corruption of the judiciary. The last bulwark of the nation had fallen. The country lay helpless at the mercy of legalized sandbaggers. Even the judges were no longer to be trusted. The most respected one among them all had been unable to resist the tempter. The supreme court, the living voice of the constitution, was honeycombed with graft. Public life was rotten to the core!

Neither the newspapers nor the public stopped to ascertain the truth or the falsity of the charges against Judge Rossmore. It was sufficient that the bribery story furnished the daily sensation which newspaper editors and newspaper readers must have. The world is ever more prompt to believe ill rather than good of a man, and so one, except in Rossmore's immediate circle of friends, entertained the slightest doubt of his guilt. It was common knowledge that the "big interests" were behind the proceedings, and that Judge Rossmore was a scapegoat, sacrificed by the system because he had been blocking their game. If Rossmore had really accepted the bribe, and few now believed him spotless, he deserved all that was coming to him. Senator Roberts, was very active in Washington preparing the case against Judge Rossmore. The latter being of the party which was in the minority, and "the interests" controlling a majority in the house, it was a foregone conclusion that the inquiry would be against him, and that a demand would at once be made upon the senate for his impeachment.

Almost prostrated by the misfortune which had so suddenly and unexpectedly come upon him, Judge Rossmore was like a man demented. His reason seemed to be tottering, he spoke and acted like a man in a dream. Naturally he was entirely incapacitated for work, and he had applied to Washington to be temporarily relieved from his judicial duties. He was instantly granted a leave of absence and went at once to his home in Madison avenue, where he shut himself up in his library, sitting for hours at his desk wrestling with documents and legal tomes in a pathetic endeavor to find some way out, trying to clude this net in which unseen hands had entangled him.

What an end to his career! To have struggled and achieved for half a century, to have built up a reputation year by year, as a man builds a house brick by brick, only to see the whole crumble to his feet like dust! To have gained the respect of the country, to have made a name as the most incorruptible of public servants, and now to be branded as a common bribe taker! Could he be dreaming? It was too incredible! What would his daughter say—his Shirley? Ah, the thought of the expression of incredulity and wonder on her face when she heard the news cut him to the heart like a knife thrust. Yet, he mused, her very unwillingness to believe it should really be his consolation. Ah, his wife and his child—they knew he had been innocent of wrongdoing. The very idea was ridiculous. At most he had been careless. Yet he was certainly to blame. He ought to have seen the trap so carefully prepared and into which he had walked as if blindfolded. That extra $50,000 worth of stock, on which he had never received a cent interest, had been the decoy in a carefully thought out plot. They, the plotters, well knew how ignorant he was of financial matters, and he had been an easy victim. Who would believe his story that the stock had been lent to him with a plausibly worded letter to the effect that it represented a bonus on his own investment? Now he came to think of it, calmly and reasonably, he would not believe it himself. As usual, he had mislaid or destroyed the secretary's letter, and there was only his word against the company's books to substantiate what would appear a most improbable if not impossible occurrence.

It was his conviction of his own good faith that made his present dilemma all the more cruel. Had he really been a grafter, had he really taken the stock as a bribe, he would not care so much, for then he would have foreseen and discounted the chances of exposure. Yes, there was no doubt possible. He was the victim of a conspiracy; there was an organized plot to ruin him, to get him out of the way. The "interests" feared him, resented his judicial decisions, and they had lured him to nothing to accomplish their purpose. How could he fight them back, what could he do to protect himself? He had no proofs of a conspiracy; his enemies worked in the dark; there was no way in which he could reach them or know who they were.

He thought of John Burkett Ryder. Ah, he remembered now! Ryder was the man who had recommended the investment in Altkian stock. Of course. Why did he not think of it before? He recollected that at the time he had been puzzled at receiving so much stock, and he had mentioned it to Ryder, adding that the secretary had told him it was customary. Oh, why had he not kept the secretary's letter? But Ryder would certainly remember it. He probably still had his two letters in which he spoke of making the investment. If those letters could be produced at the congressional inquiry they would clear him at once, so losing no time and filled with renewed hope, he wrote to the Colossus a strong, manly letter, which would have melted an iceberg, urging Mr. Ryder to come forward now at this critical time and clear him of this abominable charge, or in any case to kindly return the two letters he must have in his possession, as they would go far to help him at the trial. Three days passed and no reply from Ryder. On the fourth came a polite but frigid note, from Mr. Ryder's private secretary. Mr. Ryder had received Judge Rossmore's letter and in reply begged to state that he had a vague recollection of some conversation with the judge in regard to investments, but he did not think he had advised the purchase of any particular stock, as that was something he never did on principle, even with his most intimate friends. He had no wish to be held accountable in case of loss, etc. As to the letter which Judge Rossmore mentioned as having written to Mr. Ryder in regard to having received more stock than he had bought, of that Mr. Ryder had no recollection whatever. Judge Rossmore was probably mistaken as to the identity of his correspondent. He regretted he could not be of more service to Judge Rossmore and remained his very obedient servant.

It was very evident that no help was to be looked for in that quarter. There was even decided hostility in Ryder's reply. Could it be true that the financier was really behind these attacks upon his character? Was it possible that one man, merely to make more money, would deliberately ruin his fellow man whose hand he had grasped in friendship? He had been unwilling to believe it when his friend ex-Judge Stott had pointed to Ryder as the author of all his misfortunes, but this unsympathetic letter, with its falsehoods, its lies, plainly written all over its face, was proof enough. Yes, there was now no doubt possible. John Burkett Ryder was his enemy, and what an enemy! Many a man had committed suicide when he had incurred the enmity of the Colossus. Judge Rossmore, completely discouraged, bowed his head to the inevitable, but he sent for his old friend ex-Judge Stott.

They were lifelong friends, having become acquainted nearly thirty years ago at the law school, at the time when both were young men about to enter on a public career. Stott, who was Rossmore's junior, had begun as a lawyer in New York and soon acquired a reputation in criminal practice. He afterward became assistant district attorney and later, when a vacancy occurred in the city magistrature, he was successful in securing the appointment. On the bench he again met his old friend Rossmore, and the two men once more became closely intimate. The regular court hours, however, soon palled on a man of Judge Stott's nervous temperament, and it was not long before he retired to take up once more his criminal practice. He was still a young man, not yet fifty, and full of vigor and fight. He had a blunt manner, but his heart was in the right place, and he had a record as clean as his close shaven face. He was a hard worker, a brilliant speaker and one of the cleverest cross examiners at the bar. This was the man to whom Judge Rossmore naturally turned for legal assistance.

Stott was out west when he first heard of the proceedings against his old friend, and this indignity put upon the only really honest man in public life whom he knew, so incensed him that he was already hurrying back to his aid when the summons reached him.

THE DELAYED STEAL.

Scientific Baseball Trick Described by Expert Murnane.

RUNNER TAKES WIDE LEAD.

"A Wide Awake Lot of Players on the Bases Can Defeat a Team of Sluggers," Says the Famous Veteran Critic.

By TIM MURNANE.

The delayed steal was worked last season as never before until with several teams base running became one of the most important parts of the game, and it required a clever catcher to stop it even with sharp, accurate throwing.

Ever on the alert, the runner would take the limit of ground off first. A throw to first would see him off for second, where he would beat the throw five times out of six.

Then, again, the runner would hold his ground until the catcher had started the ball back to the pitcher, when he would dart for second. As the second baseman and shortstop were playing wide and deep, it was a race for the base, with the pitcher hesitating as to who would take the ball, with the chances all in favor of the runner leading safe. This play was also tried, and successfully—with a man on third, the runner making home as the ball was thrown to second base. The delay

T. H. MURNANE.

(Boston sporting editor, president of the New England league and member of the board of arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.)

In starting was sure to throw off the men who were picked to take the ball, and while the basemen were sizing up the situation the base runners were making ground on either or both ends of the play.

A wide awake lot of players on the bases, willing to take a chance, will defeat a team of sluggers in a season's play. Base running is the purest science of the game and the most picturesque department.

The double steal, the delayed steal and the steal when the hitting is light is a hard game to beat and especially so if the throwing is not above the average.

With base runners for opponents the strongest teams will have to keep a sharp lookout for a fine base runner is more dreaded when he comes to the bat than the heaviest slugger in the business.

Base running has been overlooked by too many baseball managers of the present time.

TENNEY'S CLEVER TRICK.

Boston National Captain Has a Scheme to Block Sacrifice Hit.

Fred Tenney and his Boston National players have developed a play that needs looking into and before the season is over will be used by every club in the country. This play blocks the sacrifice, something almost impossible under the old tactics.

With a runner on second and first and no one out, the batter's play is to sacrifice and move both men up a base. As soon as the ball is bunted toward third the third baseman rushes for the ball, and at the same time the shortstop darts out for third base. Instead of throwing to first, the usual move, the third baseman turns about and throws to the shortstop, who has covered the third bag.

As the runner doesn't need to be touched, it makes the play sure and easy for the umpire to decide.

With the play properly completed there are still two on bases and one out, with the runners stationary, as before.

Tenney is given credit for thinking this play out, and it is a peach. The Boston club has played it twice, once in Philadelphia and again at Boston, and in each instance the opposing team was dumfounded by the ease with which it was worked.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

Willie West Tells About the Broad-Wicks Beauty Show.

Some one has figured it out that a baseball player must weigh between 150 and 190 pounds. A player who weighs less than 150 pounds cannot stand the pace for any length of time if he plays the game regularly, and one who weighs more than 190 pounds is invariably too slow to play the game. There are, of course, exceptions to the rule, and there are heavyweights who are as fast as if they were carrying fifty pounds less about than they are.

New York fight fans went to a beauty show a few nights ago. They put up their money (as club members) to see Kid Broad and Alfie Wicks, late of England, pummel each other in an opera bonfire combat. It all happened at the Sharkey A. C.

When the crowd had recovered from the sight of the two faces that Broad and Wicks displayed, the mixup began. The principal weapons used in the "fight" were words, words and more words.

"Yer holdin', yer fat Englishman, yer holdin' me arms!" yelled Broad, and it was up to Wicks to bewilder Broad again.

"Aye, ye Chawntilly pipkin, 'ow'd' Hi 'old you? Bloomin' riddle toff, his youse 'oldin' 'ard' 'and not Hi," was the way Wicks put Broad on 'Queer street again."

Wicks' recent struck Broad on the point of the jaw, and he was counted out then and there.

Wicks is a typical British boxer. For years he traveled through the interior towns and cities of England boxing with all comers. Every show in that country is followed by pugilists. They have a small tent, charge admission and offer a cash prize to the man who will go three rounds and have the better of the boxing.

At every large turf event, scores of these showing, pigs pitch their carous along the roads leading to the courses. They always are, with the exception of the seller of "American home made pies," the main attraction for the laboring man.

At Havana, Cuba, recently, 20,000 people witnessed the deciding game for the championship of Cuba. The Alamedares won the $5,000 prize and the championship of the island.

BASEBALL IN ANCIENT ROME.

When Julius Caesar was a kid, and Brutus was another, and each imagined he possessed a spear that knew no brother. These noble Romans, chose up sides, all on a summer day, and hurried to a corner lot hard by the Appian Way.

Tiberius Dooley played first base on Captain Caesar's team; Herminius Clancy covered short and did it like a dream. Eorastus Flanagan played left—that garden was his home. And Marcus Shay, a centerfield tore up the Latin lawn.

Vicinius Cogan, tall and broad, was Caesar's "pitching kid," and with his Roman spitball most astounding things he did. While Claudius McGinnity, a twirler tried Struck out the mighty Julius and a number of his crew.

The game was nearly over, and the score was three to three. When Caesar, sliding into third, spiked Brutus in the knee; The game broke up, and Brutus snarled, "Some day I'll get you, kid!" Which history informs us that in later years he did.

When the present baseball season is over, the gossips have it, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh is to promote a scenic production to be entitled "Hands Across the Sea," with Wagner and Hallman representing Germany, Leach and Lynch as Ireland, Abba-ticchio Italy, Nealon the Pacific coast and Clarke the American prairies.

BASEBALL NOTABLES.

Fielder Otis Clymer of Pittsburg. Chance's Second Pennant.

POWERS' MIDSEASON REPORT

"Smiling Pat" Says Players and Not Clubs Should Pay Fines and Lauds His Staff of Umpires—Eastern Race Fairly Close.

Outfielder Otis Clymer of the Pittsburg National league team has had a short professional career, as he first attracted attention with the Williamsport (Pa.) independent club in 1902.

In 1903 Buffalo carried him as a substitute and farmed him out part of the season. His rapid development made him a regular member of the Buffalo team for 1904, from which club he was purchased by the Pittsburg club in the fall of 1904.

In Manager Stallings' opinion young Clymer was the best outfielder developed in the season of 1904. That fall he was sold to the Pittsburg club, for which club he played good ball throughout the 1905 season.

In 1906 he broke a leg in the spring and was out of the game for most of the season. This year he has been in his former fine condition and has played good ball.

President Pat Powers of the Eastern league has introduced a pleasing innovation in the form of a midseason report to his club owners and for the benefit of the press at large. In his report Mr. Powers calls attention to the closeness of the race and to the excellent attendance, despite the unpropitious spring, and makes the prediction that the campaign will prove both artistically and financially successful to a greater degree than was expected or warranted by the early outlook.

President Powers also declares that he is satisfied with the work of his five umpires, Messrs. Conway, Owens, Cusack, Kelly and McCarthy, and that he doesn't expect to make any further changes during the season. He also OTIS E. CLYMER, PITTSBURGH RIGHT FIELDER announces his firm determination to give his umpires constant support under all circumstances.

Mr. Powers gives public notice of his intention to call, in the near future, a special meeting of the Eastern league to act upon his recommendation that an ironclad rule be adopted which will compel ball players to pay their own fines. President Powers declares that three-quarters of the club managements pay the players' fines under present conditions, which practice defeats the ends for which the players are punished.

Frank Chance has swallowed the canary. He has boosted his Chicago National crew of sphere smashers to the top of the league pennant race, and he has the gaudy silk rag clinched for 1907. Chance is not only a stellar diamond general; he is a great first baseman and a deadly certain batsman.

Chance is not a disciple of chance—that is, he avoids betting and gambling in general. Like a Sunday school scholar, he puts all his spare change into Windy City real estate, and he hopes to own the whole burg some day.

Gold Production.

The production of gold in the United States during 1906 is estimated by the director of the mint at $96,101,000, which is an increase of $3,000,000 over that of 1905. The production of silver is estimated at $6,183,000 ounces, an increase of $2,000 ounces over that of the previous year.

Meteor vs. Meter.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Chronic Ulcers are the result of a deeply polluted and foul blood supply. The blood is filled with impurities and germs which are being constantly fed into the place through the circulation, until all the surrounding flesh becomes diseased and the sore an obstinate and permanent trouble. Every symptom of an old ulcer suggests pollution; the discharge, the red, angry looking flesh, the inflammation and discoloration of surrounding parts, all show that the ulcer is prevented from healing by the constant drainage through it of impurities from the blood. This impure condition of the blood may be hereditary, or it may be the remains of some constitutional disease, or the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption of the refuse of the body which has not been properly expelled through the natural channels. But whatever the cause, the blood is so weakened and polluted that it does not properly nourish and stimulate the place, and the sore cannot heal. Salves, plasters, lotions, etc., keep the sore or ulcer clean, relieve pain, and perhaps reduce inflammation, but can never permanently heal them because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very fountain-head of the trouble, drives out all poisons and germs, builds up the weak, sluggish blood, gives energy and strength to the system, and by sending a fresh, healthy stream of blood to the diseased parts, allows the ulcer to heal naturally and permanently. Nothing reaches inherited taints like S. S. S. It cleanses the circulation of every trace of hereditary disease or impurity, and those who have nursed and treated an old sore for years will experience good results as soon as the system becomes influenced by S. S. S. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free to all who write.

DEAD MERCHANT

HE SOMETIMES DRIVES TRADE AWAY FROM THE TOWN.

HINDRANCE TO LIVE MERCHANT

Are as Much to Be Feared as the Competition of the Catalogue Houses—Should Be Awakened or Buried.

Why should the home merchant be patronized instead of the mail order house? The subject has been exhausted almost and from all points of view and all sides there is no valid reason why the merchant at home should not—excepting two, price and articles wanted.

It is not the intention of the writer to jot down a pleasant flow of language or to produce an interesting bit of reading matter, but merely to state in a few simple sentences what I have seen and learned of the competition between the catalogue houses and the home merchants. In the first place no one community suffers greatly in this competition. That makes the problem all the more difficult in solution. I mean by this that the majority of buyers in no one community purchase by mail. The business of the mail order house is scattered over a large territory, the number of orders coming from any one community compared with the whole is comparatively small to the number of orders in the town. There is an exception to this in a community where the home merchants are dead ones and ask exorbitant prices.

or harvest sale or the like? But why not? These two storekeepers are bitter against the mail order houses. I wonder why? I talked with the railroad agents in that little city and he said lots of hardware and furniture was shipped in. He said, "One day I made out an express order for $34 to pay for a bill of hardware. I told the man to go up and see if the merchant couldn't fill the order. He went but soon came back, saying that he didn't have half of the stuff on hand and that he wouldn't cut a bit on what he did have."

Column after column has been written deploring the fact that the buyer spends her or his money away from home, that she or he is helping to build up the mail order house to the detriment of the home merchant. The sentiment is good and the cause is worthy of the efforts being made to stop this untoward; but no amount of writing, and no amount of home patriotism will ever overcome the bad effects of the dead merchant in the little town. The truth can be plainly seen.

Let us turn back to the general stores and look up the proprietor of any one. He probably will be found busy waiting on a customer, but if not he will tell you that it is not the catalogues alone that he fears, but also that it is the lethargy of these two dealers. They are helping to drive away trade from home.

I have wandered from the subject and gotten over on the buyers side of the fence; but isn't it well at times to look at the other side of this pitiable story? I started to write a few lines on "Why People Should Trade at Home," and have gotten into the field of "Why the Home Merchant Should Induce People to Trade at Home." It may be fair to the little town to once in a

When the local editor and the local merchant put their shoulders to the wheel of local progress the town will move, its industries will thrive, it will prosper. But remember the editor cannot do it all; he asks and must have the merchant's assistance.

To illustrate. There is a little city in the central part of Wisconsin, a beautiful little place, with its shady streets and pleasant homes. It has several general stores owned by live, wide-awake merchants, who are hustling for business, yet are always pleasant and ready to visit with a customer. They are not put out at any time to show goods, taking down bolts after bolts of cloth and maybe then not making even a five-cent sale. They take that as part of their business; they are always willing to send post-haste to the city for any article they may not have in stock that is wanted by a customer; their stocks are up-to-date and free from shelf-worn goods. These men make the humblest customers feel welcome in their stores, and particular attention is paid to waiting on children, giving them even better measure and quality than their elders would receive. And these men are advertisers. Their ads in the local papers are changed regularly and show time and study. They meet the mail order man more than half way in special sales and clearing of odds and ends. Here is an instance where there is no legitimate excuse for a person sending away after goods. And the people do not. Very few articles of general merchandise are shipped into that city. The buyer and seller are working in harmony to their own betterment and advantage.

But look at the other side. The city which we have in mind has one hardware and one furniture store. Both have fairly good stocks for the size of their circle of trade, but just step into either one of these stores. The proprietor may be in the back room or the back yard for all you know, but by and by some stir is heard and leisurely he makes his appearance—neither store has need of a clerk—and probably with some grumbles about being disturbed, asks what is wanted. There might as well be placards in the store announcing "Buy what I've got and keep still!" and "We are busy, don't disturb us." No effort is made to show you an article; nothing is ever taken down from the shelves unless directly asked for. Neither hardware nor furniture man acts willing to go what you want if he does not have it in stock. And again—neither one of these stores believe in advertising. They use no space in their home papers; a newcomer would never know the city possessed such places of business enterprise. Who ever heard of a country hardware or furniture store having a special sale.

SOME REMARKABLE HORSES.

Wonderful Stories About the Steeds of Famous Men.

In his letters to Lord Granville, published by the Royal Philosophical Society, who was also greatly interested in natural history, Smithson, the founder of the Smithsonian Institution in America, relates how the horse of Alexander the Great, Bucephalus, would at night, on hearing a blast of the trumpet from the soldiers on guard showing the approach of the enemy, run at great speed to his master's tent and with his teeth grab the sleeping monarch and shake him until he sprang into the saddle and galloped toward the enemy.

Also that the great Caliph Haroun-el-Raschid in the eighth century in marching toward the forces of Queen Irene of Constantinople constantly had a number of trained Arabian horses (direct descendants of the famous horse owned by Ishmael 4,000 years ago) thrown forward as scouts, who from time to time returned to camp and by a peculiar whinny and neigh reported the proximity of the enemy.

But, to come down to the present day, it is related by a retired New England clergyman, whose sands of life had nearly run out, that one day on leading his horse down through a lane to a brook for a drink the animal suddenly halted and, turning its head round, grabbed up with its teeth one of its hind shoes which had just dropped off, and, holding it in its mouth with the nails dangling, it backed up against a stone wall and clapped it onto its hoof and with a few violent kicks nailed it on again.

The Actor's Complaint. The physician looked grave. "I give you," he said, "but ten more years of work."

"Grinding his teeth, the actor hissed majestically: "Curse you, why didn't you tell me this before? Are you aware that you have robbed me of at least seven farewell seasons?"

Where the Difference Lies. "What is grand opera as distinct from light opera?" "Oh, you pretend to appreciate one, but you can appreciate the other."
